

Niall O'Connell

Medicine

Class of 2020 Alumni

The tutors at Carmel are so passionate about their subjects; they are incredibly engaged with making sure you do as well as you possibly can. There is so much support for all students, especially those considering applying for MDV courses or certain universities.

"I'm currently in my 5th and final year studying Medicine at the University of Liverpool, and have recently sent off my application for my first job as a junior doctor which will start next Summer. I've met some incredible people and have grown exponentially as a person over my time here, having had so many opportunities for self development. One highlight of my time is that I've recently returned from a 6-week elective placement in Japan!"
